The word that I always think of when I think of Servant Stage is "family." When you do theatre, you meet so many people and your life is so transient and you come and go out of people's lives and everything is very up in the air. But I know that whenever I come back to Servant Stage, that it's just going to pick up right where I left off and it's like they're my family. And I don't think that's exclusively when you're in the cast of a Servant Stage show, it's also when you're in the audience. I know there are so many people that I've met while performing that come to every single show, and you become friends with the audience as well. There's this acknowledgement that you're a part of something special when you're part of the audience at a Servant Stage performance, and I think that goes for when you're watching it live and in person, when you're sitting out in a park on a picnic blanket, or when you are sitting at home during a quarantine and watching it on your screen. I think there's this wonderful sense of community that the Servant Stage team has fostered and it's really just incredibly special to be a part of that! Thank you so much, Servant Stage, for being my family.

John Ruskin has said "When love and skill work together expect a masterpiece." How true this is when you look at what Servant Stage has achieved. The 2020 entertainment world has been turned upside from the pandemic, but from the very beginning we heard from our friends at Servant Stage. They reached out to the Londonderry Village residents with past DVD performances to share inspirational music. Our community has looked forward to every performance.

A letter from the Executive Director.

TO OUR DEAR SUPPORTERS, AUDIENCES, ARTISTS, VOLUNTEERS, AND COMMUNITY...

The regional premiere of the Broadway musical Amazing Grace was supposed to be one of the many highlights of 2020 for Servant Stage. The postponement was just one of many disappointments in a challenging year. It would be easy to focus on those disappointments and challenges, but instead, we return to that phrase “amazing grace” (just as we also plan to return to a wonderful production of Amazing Grace in the upcoming season).

Ernest Hemingway says that “Courage is grace under pressure,” and I am so grateful for the grace that the Servant Stage community has displayed under tremendous pressure in 2020. Grace (from the Latin gratis) is such a rich word, with connotations including Favor, Gift, Gratitude, Generosity, Help, Embellish, and Beauty; all meanings that we have found important to Servant Stage this year.

As our community has faced so much unexpected adversity this year, we believed that the inspiration, beauty, and hope found through the arts and Servant Stage’s mission to “inspire, educate, challenge, and entertain” was more needed than ever. Our vision has always been to make the arts accessible to people where they are at. So with both our audiences and performers stuck at home, we worked harder than ever this past year to create new ways to connect and bring the arts to our community.

Our team tackled every challenge we faced and found so many new opportunities to continue serving our community creatively. Though we did experience loss, we also experienced incredible grace, gratitude, gifts, and growth.

We had to cancel over 150 performances and truly missed seeing an expected 60,000 audience members in person, but we are so grateful for the growth we saw in online engagement with more than 340,000 views of Servant Stage videos in 2020!

With the cancelation of so many productions we lost over $300,000 in projected revenue, but thanks to the generosity of our Servant Stage community we managed to finish the year without a loss, and are in a great position for a successful 2021 season.

In the face of many obstacles, hardships, uncertainties, and circumstances beyond our control, our team responded with amazing grace under pressure, and created so many beautiful gifts for the community through the Living Room Concert Series, Teen Company, Apprentice Company, and online conSERVANTory programs.

We don’t take any of this for granted. As we look across the community and country, we see so many theaters that have been forced to shut down completely, many for at least a year, some permanently. We are so incredibly grateful for the gracious gifts that have continued to pour in from the Servant Stage community, making it possible for us to continue gracing the stage with virtual performances, concerts, classes, and training. Through your generosity, we have been able to continue offering these gifts gratis to the community. It is because of the contributions of each and every one of you that Servant Stage is able to continue having such a dramatic impact on all stages of life in our community!

“Through many dangers, toils, and snares, I have already come;
’Twas grace has brought me safe thus far and grace will lead me home.”

OUR SEASON

From the moment we announced our season plans for 2020, we were extremely excited about what was in store. We were looking forward to presenting some of the biggest and most challenging productions in our history. We were eager to see the next steps in the growth of our youth theatre come to fruition. It had all the signs of becoming one of our best seasons yet.

We began the year by welcoming 50 students into our first ever winter youth production, Frozen Jr. Several weeks of rehearsals and a sold out weekend of performances started the year off with a bang. Next, we launched into rehearsals for Don't Rock the Jukebox with a cast of 30 incredible teen performers. We were days away from opening the show when the world around us changed, and our course shifted dramatically. While a majority of our 2020 season would look nothing like we so eagerly anticipated, what took place over the next 9 months was remarkable and in my opinion proved to still be one of our best seasons yet.

OUR STAFF & PERFORMERS

When we realized that the theatre world was coming to a halt, we immediately started brainstorming about what we needed to do to continue the mission of Servant Stage. Every single person on our staff jumped in and immediately began learning new skills and tackling uncharted territory. It took literally hundreds of people sharing their time, talents, and gifts in order to make these virtual concerts happen. We were even able to feature and hear from artists all over the country, performing in our Living Room Concert Series as well as teaching in our online theatre classes. We are so thankful for our network of amazing, caring, and supportive performers, musicians, and teachers.

OUR YOUTH THEATRE

Having to cancel many of our youth productions and projects was truly devastating. It not only put the brakes on the most rapidly growing area of our company, but took away something from our young performers that they so desperately needed during this season in their lives. But, like every step of the way, we refused to simply give up. We created an online conSERVANTory, which provided 8 weeks of virtual classes that students of any age could attend in order to stay engaged, encouraged, and active in their love of theatre. We launched the first semester of our Teen Company and Apprentice Company, which included 38 amazingly talented teens. Even being online, we could not be more proud of what they were able to accomplish. We still saw tremendous growth in this youth program even in the midst of this challenging time.

OUR AUDIENCES

Our audiences proved more loyal, faithful, hopeful, enthusiastic, and supportive than ever before. As much as our community needed us this year, we needed our community just as much. You continued to show up, to tune in virtually, to encourage us and lift us up. The Servant Stage family is not limited to staff or cast or crew, but it is all of us, and the strength of this family persevered through what was an incredibly difficult season.

OUR FUTURE

As I look back on the year, I am saddened by the loss of so many opportunities, but am so incredibly grateful for the many opportunities that came out of this season. Like the theatre industry, we WILL be back, and like always, Servant Stage WILL continue to serve. We cannot wait to get this next year started, and welcome you back into the theatre. Whatever it takes, we will continue finding ways to reach and support our community, and to be a constant in this great arts community. In the coming year we will move forward with great anticipation and expectation as we continue to grow, to learn, to listen, and to serve.

servant stage stories

Heidi Cesarini came to Frozen Jr. to support her daughter, Ruby, and the rest of the campers and loved every minute of it. She explained this was her first SSC experience and she was blown away. Heidi shared how the experience impacted her personally. During the show, a group of adults behind her began belting along to "Let it Go." Heidi turned around to see a group of special needs adults with the biggest smiles on their faces that she had ever seen. She realized in that moment that Servant Stage may be the only place this group would ever feel comfortable expressing themselves with so much enthusiasm and joy! She then understood fully why Servant Stage exists and why we must continue to exist!

THE ONLINE CONSERVANTORY

26 professional instructors

June-August

In an effort to fulfill our mission to educate performers of all ages in an uplifting and encouraging environment, Servant Stage launched our Online ConSERVANTory as a 2020 alternative to our in-person summer musical theatre camps. Servant Stage was thrilled to offer virtual, lecture-style master classes for theatre lovers of all ages in a variety of theatrical disciplines including acting, singing, dance, and more, all taught by seasoned local professionals and Broadway veterans.

40+ classes offered

300+ students

Since we can't be in shows or go to live theater classes with our friends right now, the ConSERVANTory is a perfect way to brush up on our performing arts skills and learn a ton of new skills in a safe way! The technology to join the classes is very user friendly and the teachers are really knowledgeable and passionate about their subject matter! Plus they are super friendly! I learned a ton from every class!

Brady Norgaard
ConSERVANTory student

Servant Stage's new ConSERVANTory is a one-stop shop. Whether you want to work behind the scenes, on stage, or anywhere in between, you'll find talented teachers sharing their knowledge in the ConSERVANTory classrooms. We appreciate the pay-what-you-will model and ease of picking class times that work for our schedule. Thank you Servant Stage for prioritizing your youth theatre program.

Teen & Apprentice Company

June - October

We were thrilled to take our youth theatre program to a new level in 2020 with the creation of our Teen and Apprentice Companies. 38 students were selected to participate in this intensive 4-month program, receiving personalized weekly courses from June to October. Though the entire program had to take place online due to health restrictions, the students were able to learn from a variety of local professionals and Broadway veterans each week as they studied acting, singing, and dancing. We were so proud of the work each of these students did in our inaugural classes of TeenCo and AppCo.

What began as a four-week endeavor to continue providing outstanding entertainment for all and opportunities for performers in our community grew into two dozen weekly concerts over the course of six months. From Broadway standards to the showstoppers of today, sacred and spiritual songs, and original music, the Living Room Concert Series reached out into the Servant Stage community and brought us together in a season when we needed it most.

Servant Stage means so much to me. It's been such an honor to be part of such a kind, supportive, and servant-hearted community and company and it's meant more to me now than ever before. Having family that live all across the country be able to tune in for these wonderful virtual concerts has been such a gift, and it's Servant Stage that's making that happen. But so are you! It's your kindness and generosity that is helping Servant Stage continue on through such a difficult time.

Servant Stage • At Home

In this season of social distancing, we were honored to be able to still make Servant Stage performances available to our community! Beginning in April, we released more than a dozen past performances to stream online for free, as well as provided playbills and DVDs to retirement homes to broadcast to their residents.

Servant Stage is one of our residents' favorite performing groups. They very much look forward to them coming to campus and presenting their shows for us. So when COVID came and we got locked down we were so happy to have the option to show the performances via our inhouse television channel. So every week we put on a different Servant Stage show and the residents love them and comment about how much they enjoy it and even ask for repeat performances.

A note from the Managing Director.

From its inception, Servant Stage has been a community focused organization. From our staff, to our performers and volunteers, and certainly our audiences, the heartbeat of Servant Stage has always been serving our community at large, serving each other, and seeking to engage every individual - on both sides of the curtain - personally, positively, and authentically.

Never before has this heart been more beautifully seen than in 2020. When COVID hit, our staff refused to let the shutdown shut us down, and immediately began exploring new avenues and technology with which to reach our community. Our network of performers stepped up enthusiastically to jump on board. Our Youth Theatre participants graciously adapted to new formats and accomplished amazing things. Brand new theatre education opportunities were launched to serve students in quarantine. And you - our community - humbled us beyond words by continuing to pour out your love and support, both financially and by tuning in again and again to the content produced. All of this makes us look toward the future with hope. The mission of Servant Stage - and the devotion of every one of you who make up the Servant Stage community - has proven that it will continue to grow and thrive. And that's because Servant Stage isn't ultimately a show or a program. Servant Stage is you and me. Servant Stage is Us.

I'm incredibly grateful for Servant Stage. For the past several years I've had the opportunity to be part of some amazing productions, but even more so I've had the opportunity to be a part of this amazing community and that includes you. The mission to serve has always been the part of Servant Stage that I cherish most. And if it weren't for you we would have no real reason to serve, so thank you, and thank you for supporting us and allowing us to continue to serve, and thank you for continuing to serve others in the way that you do with your support.

I think it's hard to put into words what Servant Stage means and what Servant Stage does. It's really something you have to experience. The smiles on people's faces, the community, and the fun. The stories that we get to tell and the stories that we hear from you, it truly is something unique. From the youth theatre productions to the full productions of classic beloved shows, there really is something for everyone. Whether you want to sit back and enjoy the show or jump in on the action. And all of that is made possible by your support. By your donations, your smiles, your singing along, all of it makes Servant Stage's mission possible.

2014 marked our first full season with 5 productions and 55 performances.

2014

The 2015 season included our first Broadway musical, as well as the original production of our recurring audience favorite, A Christmas Carol.

2015

In 2016, Wally Calderon joined the staff as a full-time Artistic Director and Servant Stage offered its first summer youth theatre camp.

2016

2017 brought five mainstage shows and the addition of a second summer theatre camp. With audience favorites like The Civil War and Around the World in 80 Days, attendance grew by 72%. Our staff grew as well, as Tyler Hoover joined the team as Managing Director.

2017

THE HISTORY OF Servant Stage

2018

Our Youth Theatre season expanded further in 2018, adding a third summer camp and an all-teen mainstage revue, Jukebox Saturday Night! This season also featured the record-breaking productions Titanic (largest cast & orchestra) and I'll Fly Away (largest attended show to date)

We experienced significant growth in 2019. Our staff expanded to five full-time and three part-time team members and once again broke records in nearly every category, including audience attendance, number of performances, and cast, crew, and volunteers.

Despite significant challenges due to COVID-19, Servant Stage saw continued growth in our youth education programs with the introduction of our Teen & Apprentice Companies and a massive leap in our online audience and engagement through our Living Room Concert Series.

Servant Stage is looking forward with hope, planning for our most exciting season yet, with the return of several audience favorite shows, a regional premiere of a Broadway musical, a staged reading of an original show, and much more!
